BRC1A/BRC2A (Selected Variants)

You have an increased risk of developing breast cancer and prostate cancer based on your much.

Why You Should Get This Test

- Breast cancer
- Prostate cancer
- Other cancers

How to Take This Test

- Blood draw

Interpreted by

- Genetic counselor

Uniradiuretic

- Risk to first-degree relatives
- Risk to other relatives
- lmmidations

Important to Know

- The results of this test will be shared with you and your healthcare provider.

There are things you can do to manage your risk for node breast cancer and prostate cancer.

- Lifestyle changes
- Medical interventions

About BRC1A/BRC2A-Related Cancers

- Breast cancer
- Prostate cancer
- Other cancers

It is important to discuss this email with a healthcare professional.

[Click here to open the email in your email client.

[Add a button or link to schedule a consultation with a healthcare professional here.

[Add a button or link to access a privacy policy or terms of service here.

[Add a button or link to learn more about BRC1A/BRC2A-Related Cancers here.

[Add a button or link to contact us here.

[Add a button or link to support information here.