Triglycerides

*Triglycerides (TGs) are lipid molecules that provide energy in the body. They are carried in the bloodstream as lipoproteins. They can be converted to energy or stored in fat cells.

Zara's genetic result is associated with a typical lymphoma.